Principles of the United States Constitution

Federalism

Federalists wanted a strong federal government. Anti-Federalists wanted a strong state/local government.

Checks and Balances

Each branch has the power to "check" the others to prevent one branch from becoming more powerful than the others.

Separation of Powers

Power is divided between the three branches of the U.S. government equally.

Judicial Legislative Executive